HIGHLIGHTS

Pope Francis's Prayer To Mary During Coronavirus Pandemic

O Mary, you always shine on our path as a sign of salvation and of hope. We entrust ourselves to you, Health of the Sick, who at the cross took part in Jesus' pain, keeping your faith firm.

You, Salvation of the Roman People, know what we need, and we are sure you will provide so that, as in Cana of Galilee, we may return to joy and to feasting after this time of trial.

Help us, Mother of Divine Love, to conform to the will of the Father and to do as we are told by Jesus, who has taken upon himself our sufferings and carried our sorrows to lead us, through the cross, to the joy of the resurrection. Amen.

Under your protection, we seek refuge, Holy Mother of God. Do not disdain the entreaties of we who are in trial, but deliver us from every danger, O glorious and blessed Virgin. Amen.

"You shall not carve idols for yourselves in the shape of anything... "
Exodus 20:4

How many "gods" do you put before God? "Idols" do not always take the shape of physical things, things we can touch and feel. Those are easy to recognize. Many times they take the form of things we cannot touch and are much harder to spot like pride, power, ego, time, comfort or health. Pray for God's help to prune our vices and to grow in virtue.

FROM OUR PASTOR

PASTORAL STAFF

Dear Parishioners,

One of the favorite shows in my youth was Saturday afternoon's Wide World of Sports, televising games and contests from across the globe, oftentimes sports unfamiliar to Americans. Some of you may remember that the lead-in to the show promised "the thrill of victory," accompanied by a clip of some team celebrating its triumph, and "the agony of defeat," which for years showed a skier heading down a ski jump in good form, and just before he was to lift off, he veered off the edge of the ski jump and took a nasty fall, the type of fall that made one flinch every time it was seen. How awful "the agony of defeat!"

What most people never knew, however, was that this particular skier chose to fall rather than finish the jump. He explained later that the jump surface had become slick with ice - much too fast for jumping. Midway down the ramp he realized that he was picking up so much speed that if he completed the jump he would very likely land beyond the sloped landing area and hit level ground, which may very well have been fatal. Although it looked terrible and painful on TV, by taking the alternative of going over the side, the skier actually suffered no more than a headache.

Changing directions in mid-course sometimes may be painful for us, too. Putting on the brakes or jumping over the side may be challenging and stressful, but sometimes it's the best and wisest thing to do. The alternative is to keep going and really mess things up.

Lent is our time to stop barreling down the slope with the potential of incurring great harm. Through Moses, God made known the way to stay free of such tragedy. The Ten Commandments provide information on how we should live. First, always first, we give honor and glory to God. We don't profane his name or his day - both are far too sacred to do such a thing. Having given God his due, we then turn to God's people. They also deserve our respect, love, and honesty. Lent is a good time to evaluate our attitude toward God and others.

It's also a good time to examine our prayer life. Jesus informs us through today's Gospel that prayer is important and should be done correctly, especially when it's done in God's House. Too many people in Jerusalem had turned the temple into a marketplace, they paid more attention to the coins in their hands than the Lord in their hearts. Big mistake! They quickly felt the wrath of Jesus. Selfishness, especially when exercised in place of prayer, was unacceptable. Lent is the time to make sure our prayer life is pleasing to God.

It may be difficult. It may take some work. It should require we make use of the Sacrament of Confession, not always the easiest thing to do. But it's better than charging down the ski jump knowing you're going to get hurt after you take off. Jump over the side now and endure whatever pain or embarrassment a good Confession may entail. Because, in this case, it won't lead to the "agony of defeat," but to the "thrill of victory," a victory brought to us by Jesus Christ.

May God bless all of you.

In Christ,
Fr. Hambrough

What would it take to find a few moments of peace in your day?
What if those few moments made all the difference?

Exhausting. Busy. Chaotic.

How often do you use those words when describing our day? As Catholic women, many of us with kids, spouses, jobs, (and now add homeschool teacher to the list), it is easy to feel like everyone wants a piece of your time and energy.

And when that time and energy just isn't there to give, it can leave us feeling guilty.

If only we had more time, more energy, more hands! Then we could get it all done.

Then we'll have earned the right to some peace.

But what if the solution wasn't giving from a place of depletion?

What if peace was possible, and you didn't have to add:

one more commitment

one more task

one more zoom call or one more assignment to your life?

What if you already had all of the resources in your day to love your God, kids, husband, friends, yourself, AND rest in God's peace?

Peace is Possible, Let's Discover it Together. ☐

At this year's National Catholic Women's Conference, we will be entering into Christ's words, "My Peace I give to you." And there's great news. You don't have to earn it!

FROM OUR SEMINARIAN JAKE BRAUN

The Heresy of Apollinaris

Often in the early Church, heresies crop up in reaction to other heresies, with initially well-meaning teachers of the faith attempting to rescue Church doctrine from the clutches of some other error. With notable heretics like Apollinaris and Nestorius, this is no less the case, as the Nestorian heresy emerged from Nestorius' own attempts to ensure an erudite understanding of Trinitarian and Christological realities. In this article, I will explore Apollinaris' Christological errors in preparation for an overview of the Nestorian heresy next week.

The heresy of Apollinaris was an error regarding the human and Divine natures of the Second Person of the Trinity. Because the words nature (which denotes what a thing is) and person (which denotes who someone is) were not yet used in a clear and uniform manner, it was difficult to understand to virtually any degree how the Second Person of the Trinity might be both God and Man. This difficulty is the main impetus for many of the early heresies regarding Christ, as it led to oversimplifications of a mystery that can never be perfectly grasped by our feeble human minds. For Apollinaris, this took an interesting form: claiming that the Divine Nature of the Second Person of the Trinity replaced the mind and will of the Christ. As St. Gregory of Nazianzen says, "He assumes that the man who came down from heaven above is without a mind, but that the Godhead of the only-begotten fulfills the function of mind, and is the third part of this human composite, inasmuch as soul and body are in it on its human side, but not mind, the place of which is taken by God the Word." This means that the human nature of Jesus Christ would be some kind of amalgam of Divine and human parts, stitched together to form a new, third thing. According to this view, Jesus would have had only a partial human soul, roughly equivalent to an animal soul, while the Divine Intellect would have taken the place of a human intellect. The problems with this view are many and varied.

In this Apollinarian view of Jesus, problematic theological conclusions are immediately apparent. First, it could not properly be said that the Second Person of the Trinity became man in any real sense. Rather, one would have to hold that the Word merely inhabited flesh, leaving out the most crucial parts of human nature, which are the intellect and will. Consequently, any suffering undergone by Jesus Christ, including his death, becomes attributable to the Godhead, the Second Person of the Trinity, who is Life and Goodness and Truth Himself. All of these errors become targets for later theologians, some for better and some for worse. Next week, I will explain the reaction of the heretic Nestorius to some of these claims.

Prayer for the Year of St. Joseph

*Hail, Guardian of the Redeemer, Spouse of the Blessed Virgin Mary.
To you God entrusted his only Son;
in you Mary placed her trust;
with you Christ became man.
Blessed Joseph, to us too,
show yourself a father
and guide us in the path of life.
Obtain for us grace, mercy and
courage,
and defend us from every evil. Amen.*

DYNAMIC CATHOLIC, ALIVE! - THE CROSS

There is so much to reflect upon in the readings today. First, we can reflect on the Ten Commandments in the proper way and what their true nature is: they are guideposts to living in authentic freedom for goodness. They are not mere restrictions against fun as the world often tells us. Second, Paul reminds us that we must preach Christ crucified and never offer less than the truth about our faith to others. Christ's Passion shows us that we too must endure suffering in order to enter into glory. Finally, the Gospel shows the righteous anger of Christ and foreshadows His Resurrection from the dead. We are called to walk the road to Calvary with Christ and enter into the mystery of His suffering.

SUSTAINABILITY IN EL SALVADOR

Drought has become a big problem across El Salvador, making it difficult for farmers to produce enough crops to support their families. But new farming techniques - and a new generation of young farmers - are making a difference. What would you do if your livelihood was threatened? How can you support young people in your community and around the world? Visit Crsricebowl.org to learn more.
